Newsletter for the Panavision Group

The new premises features a "Hall of Fame"

Out with the old address, in with the new.

And the Website content is changing too!

Panavision's Sydney office has been at the same address in Artarmon for more than twenty years. In that time, technology and the film and television industries have changed. There's a lot more equipment to get to know and we have to store it, maintain it and explain it. So it's no surprise that we've gradually been growing out of our old office.

At last, we have found a perfect place for all our operations and look forward to your visit!

The new premises, designed by Scope Interiors are specifically tailored for our business and we are sure that this will add value to all client dealings by being modern, efficient and comfortable. With new and improved testing facilities and a larger Panacafe, we are sure your time spent here will be relaxed and productive. And as we are moving next to Deluxe Australia you will also have easy access to processing and post production facilities.

From 16 November, 2009, we'll be at our new address. We can't wait to welcome you!

Unit 1, 706 Mowbray Road, Lane Cove NSW 2066

Welcome to the first edition of Panavision On Cue.

Every month we will bring together all manner of information that we believe you will find interesting. You can look forward to the latest production news from wherever our equipment is being used in Australia and New Zealand. We will also provide tips and technical information on the latest equipment available from Panavision.

During the next fortnight we are moving Sydney premises to a purpose designed location, launching our new website AND inaugurating this monthly newsletter.

So welcome to edition one and now read on!

Thank you

Martin Cayzer

The new website, will launch on 23rd November. Still found at www.panavision.asia, it is being revamped to take industry changes into consideration and to save you time.

Features include improved navigation, new sections (such as The Resource Training Room where you can access videos detailing relevant information on all the latest equipment) and useful downloads, so click on us whenever you have a business related query: you are sure to find an answer. We want your Panavision experience to be as easy as possible so that we can all enjoy an ongoing service relationship.
