

Panavision On Cue

September 2010 Newsletter for the Panavision Group

Tomorrow When the War Began 3rd highest opening Australian movie in history!

Tomorrow When The War Began made history recently as the 3rd highest opening Australian movie after Australia and Happy Feet. The movie also represents another success for Panavision Australia, who supplied the cameras, accessories and technical support for the film.

Panavision Asia Pacific Managing Director Martin Cayzer said, "First and foremost Tomorrow When the War Began (TWTWB) is a great book that has been turned into a fantastic movie by Ambience Entertainment, Director Stuart Beattie, DOP Ben Nott and his crew. TWTWB came to Panavision due to our long and successful relationship with Line Producer Anne Bruning and cinematographer Ben Nott, both of whom we have worked with for many years."

click to read full article

Benn Nott

Minatures shoot blowing up the bridge into town

On set shooting a view 'downhill'

Marc Spicer

Tech News

3D lightens up ...

To cope with the growing demand for a lightweight 3D solution, we have added the Element Technica Neutron rig, SI2K cameras and CineDeck to our fleet. This combination now gives you the flexibility to shoot hand held, on a Steadicam or even in an underwater housing.

To complement all our 3D rigs and for general shooting, we now offer the Preston FIZ3.

For more information on all these products please click on the image

Become a fan of Panavision on Facebook or follow Panavision on Twitter. Click here to join or use the icons on the Panavision homepage.

Click here for the printable version of 'On Cue' newsletter

Download PDF

TELL-A-FRIEND about "On Cue"

UNSUBSCRIBE

Sydney 02 8437 5555
Melbourne 03 8532 8800

Gold Coast 07 5656 7333
Auckland 64 9 360 8770

www.panavision.asia